

A story of Dr.jack and the Beanstalk

In 2050, people in London suffer from food crisis. There was a poor scientist named Jack living near Tower Bridge. He was a scientist of genetic modification and working diligently everyday to develop new species to be suited to mass production. However, it doesn't go as thought, and only the failure. Jack is already unpleasant to research. One day, Jack failed the experiment and had thrown away the medicine through the window to the outside in desperation. Then, the test tube with the medicine has cracked in the place where the beans were planted in the field.

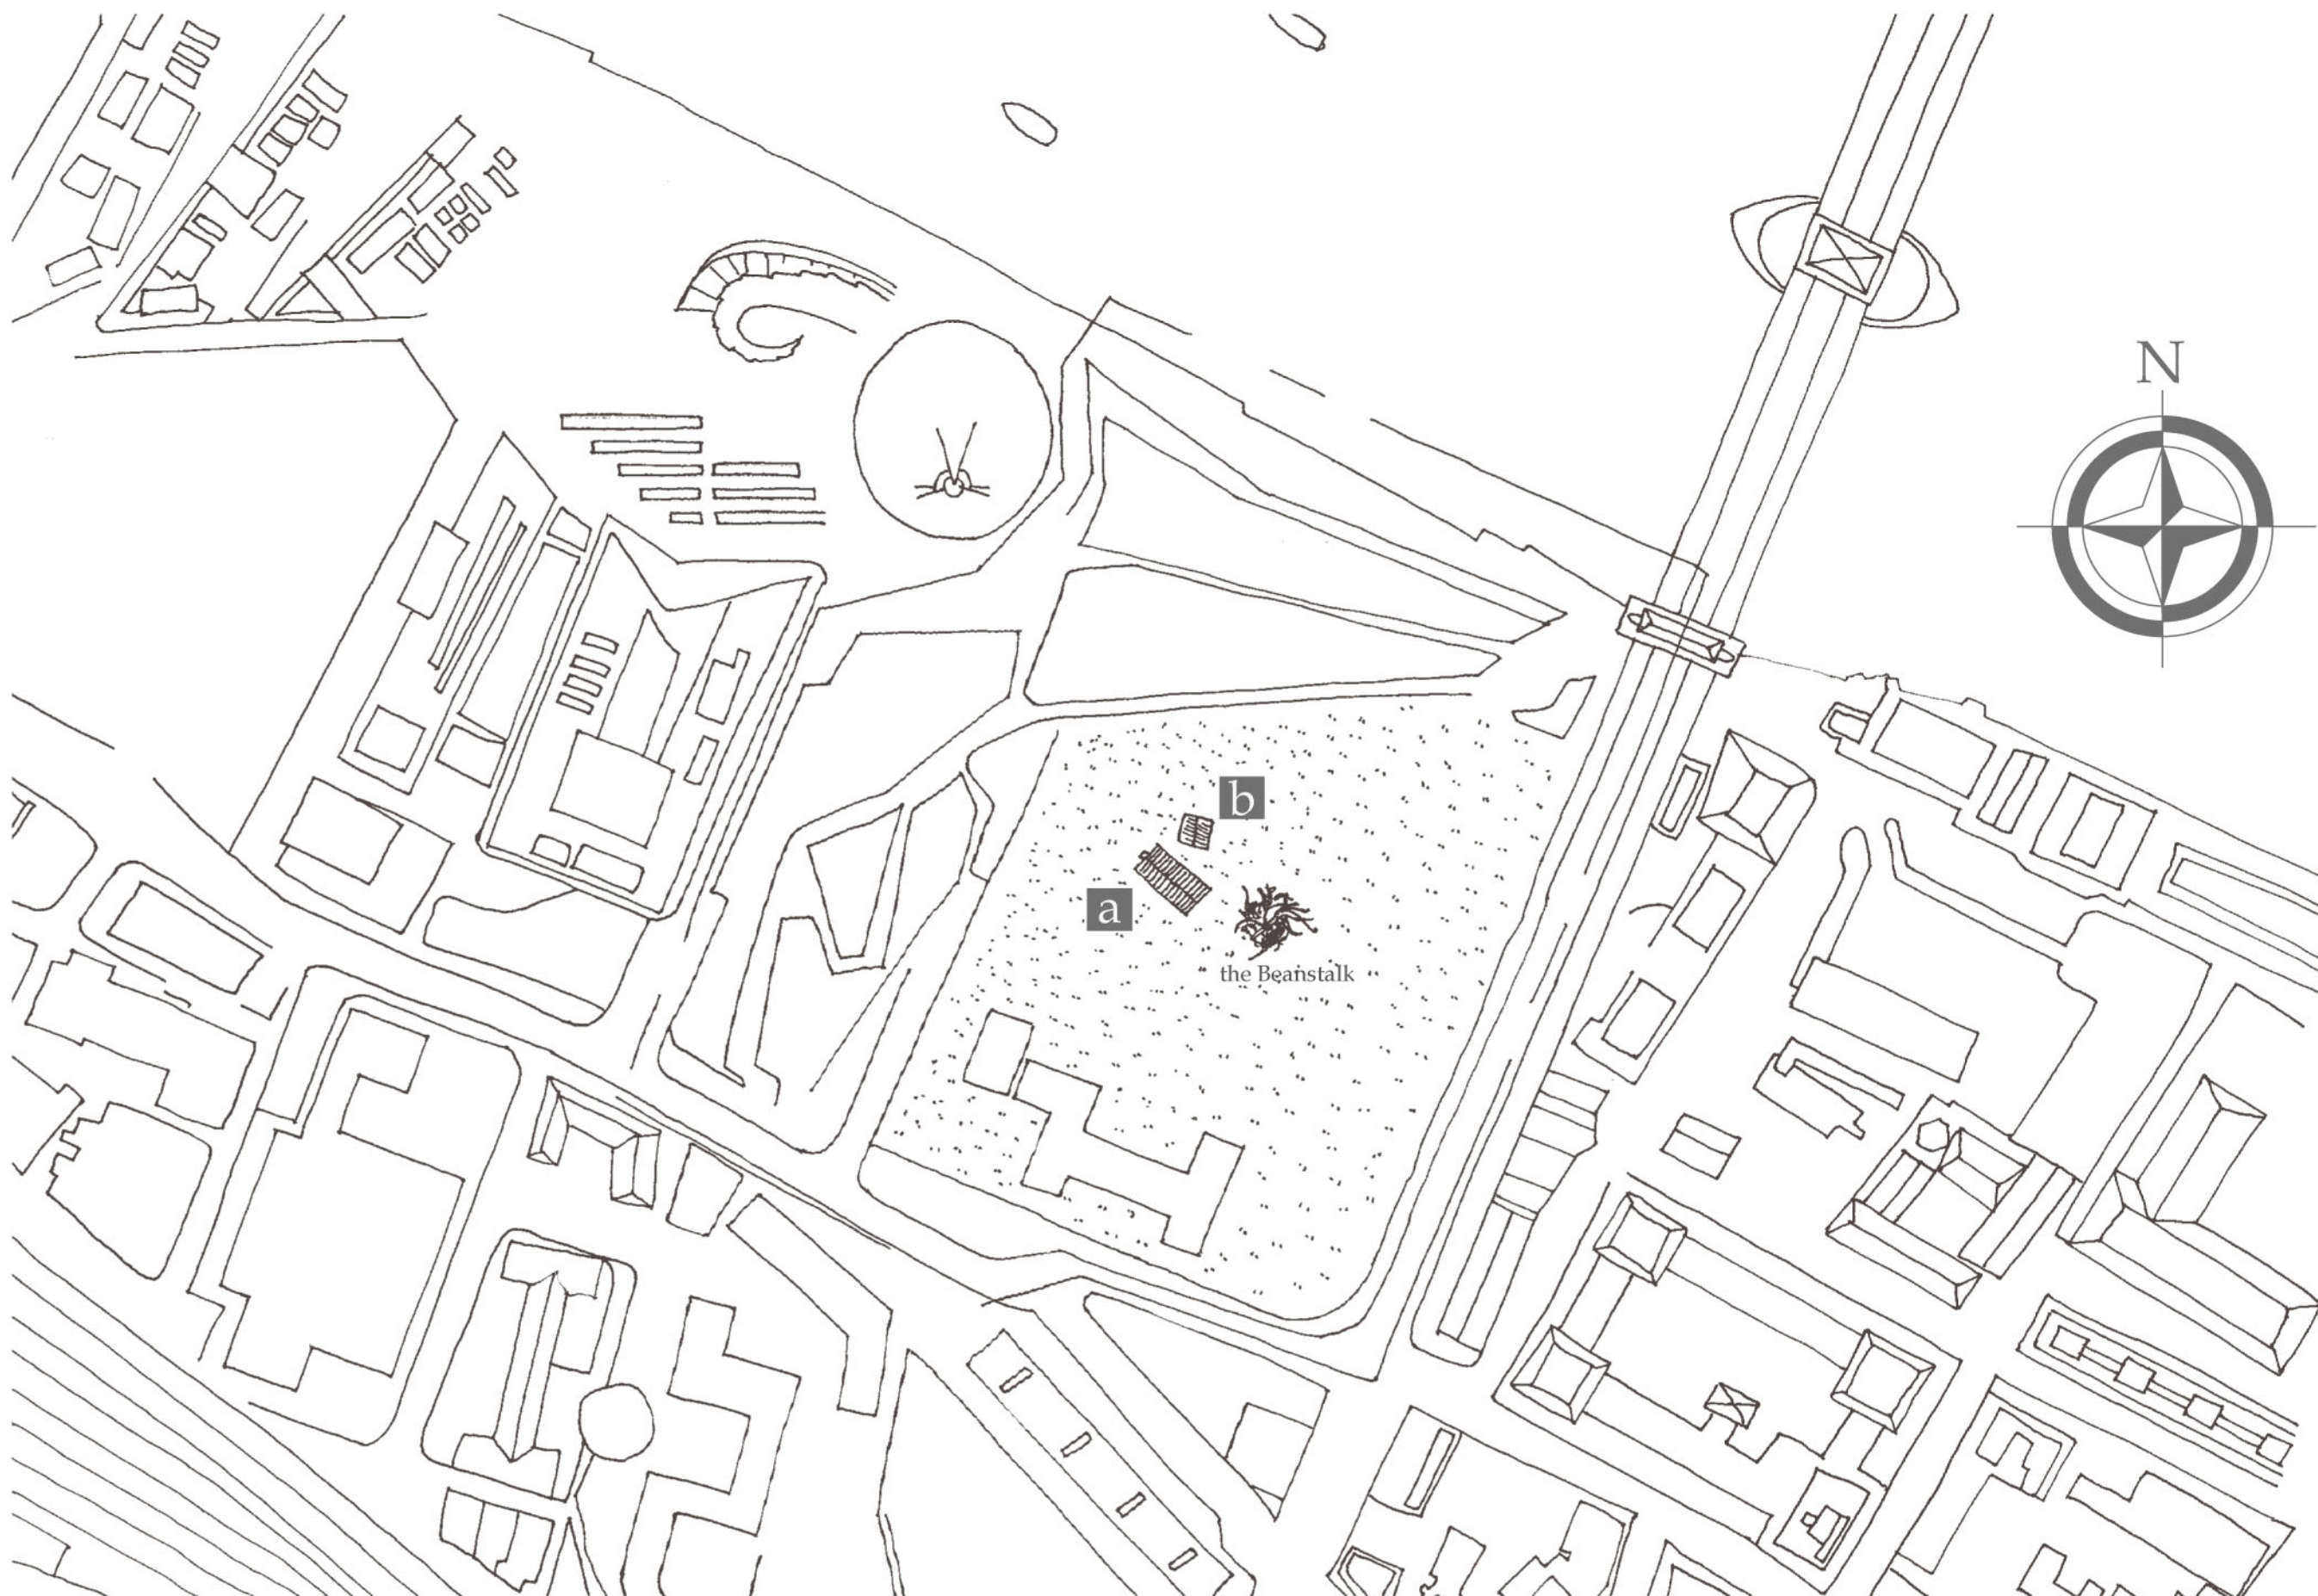

The very big bean bud had come up in the garden on the next day. It grew day by day, and it begun to bear. Jack placed the ladder, caught one brunch, and opened it. Mysteriously, various vegetables and fruits were served from the bunch. Jack began to build up simple scaffoldings to catch the peas in a pod around the Beanstalk immediately. Jack caught food from the Beanstalk, and was selling it at home. People in London of the food crisis gathered in Jack's house for food because they had starved. Jack has caught all bunches below. Therefore, Jack has raised the flame for the bunch above. Then, the Beanstalk and the flame rose fast, and finally exceeded the cloud.

Food was not enough though the food crisis had been eased by Jack and the Beanstalk yet. One day People in London crowded Jack's house for getting more food. Since there was just no food in Jack's house, Jack climbed, the Beanstalk to catch food. Jack had to climb the tower above the cloud because he had caught all bunches below. It considerably takes time to climb the Beanstalk above the cloud. So Jack becomes tired and has slept.

Jack was wrapped in the bunch when waking up.

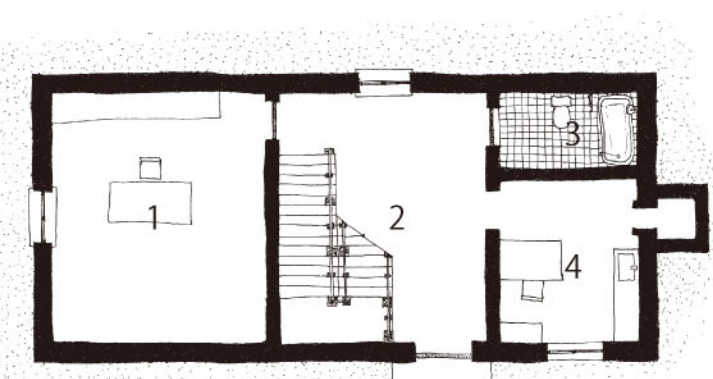

After that, nobody knows where Jack is.
